THE OLDEST SETTLEMENT ON EARTH

In It There Is a Shrine Which Was
Heathen Temple, Then Christian
Church and Now a Mosque.

At last we are set down in the midst of Damascus, a city that can claim life without a break from its founding back in the dim dawn of the world's history, says the Christian Herald. When Abram crossed the desert from Haran 4,000 years ago this city was standing. (See Gen. xiv, 15, and xv, 2.) She dates back to the time of the Pharaohs in Egypt; in fact, she was old when Greece and Rome were stripplings in years. Rome may be termed the "Eternal City," but Damascus is twice as old, and though her streets have run red with blood of battle and rapine many times, she has not been overthrown.

"Babylon is a heap in the desert and Tyre is a ruin on the shore," but Damascus remains.

Was there ever such a place to see the nations of the earth parading together? Here in the market place are motley crowds of Persians, Moors, Afghans, Indians, Egyptians, Sudanese, Jews, Bedouins, Russians, Turks, Europeans. The streets—so crooked, so narrow, so dirty, so full of life, with that strange spell of the desert upon them! The residences as seen from the street are ugly and disappointing enough, yet like old barns and tumble-down mills at home, are fascinating and picturesque.

There are nearly enough mosques and shrines in Damascus to make it possible for you to have a different one for every day in the year. But there are but two or three that you will care to spend any time on. You pass through the street called Straight and find yourself at the outer gate of the mosque Jal' al Amwy, which ranks next in sanctity only to those at Mecca, Medina and Jerusalem. This has a history: First, a heathen temple dedicated to the god Rimmon, then a Christian church, and now a Mohammedan mosque. Evidences of its Christian history are still there: The original gateway remains, as the chalice and patten on the bronze doors testify, and then a portion of an arch with a Greek inscription which seems singularly out of place and almost prophetic. It reads, "Thy kingdom, O Christ, is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations."

Prof. G. E. Woodberry, who is writing on "North Africa and the Desert," for Scribner's, tells in the February number of meeting with a soldier of the Foreign Legion in the heart of Algeria who was an American, born near Boston—the only American in the Foreign Legion.

The February Motor number of Scribner's has many beautiful color pictures—a frontispiece "An International Difficulty," "The New Romance," and Earle Harrison's Lumiere photographs, notably a scene of the Grand Canyon which has all the charm of a painting.

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

A German chemist at Hanover has succeeded in making hard coal out of the elements of which the coal in mines was formed. His estimate is that it took 8,000,000 years for this coal to assume its present condition.

Sparkless Bell System for Mines—Telephone apparatus is likely to be dangerous in mines where fire damp occurs, not from any sparking in the microphone, as this appears to be harmless, but from the electric bells which are needed for the telephones. While it is true that some types of electric bell are brought out which are inclosed in gasproof boxes so that the sparks cannot cause an explosion, it appears that in practice it is a very difficult matter to keep the gas from entering. A European inventor, C. Feder, now designs an electric bell system so as to be entirely free from sparks, as he uses no moving contacts. For the current, he makes use of a special magneto, fixing the armature and rotating the permanent magnets about it, and thus the armature has no commutator or other moving contacts, but the wires come directly off the coils. No sparks can there occur. For the electric bell he uses a polarized armature attracted by an alternating current magnet, this working on the line current which the magneto supplies, and no sparks are given.

Speaking of making sudden changes—did you ever want to heat up a room in a hurry? Perhaps you overslept. Perchance the alarm did not ring. You are in a terrible hurry—

Then is the time when you will appreciate a

Cole's Original
Air-Tight
Wood Stove

From zero to seventy degrees Fahrenheit is a big jump—but it is an easy stunt for this remarkable heater.

Five minutes in time is all that is needed.

Think of what that means to you on a cold morning—of the time you save. No building of a new fire. You put in a fresh stick and away she goes.

That isn't all. You get a steady, controllable heat hour after hour.

Think what this means to your family—in illness prevented and doctor's bills avoided.

Think of what it means in comfort—quickly and cheaply furnished.

Then come in while it is still in your mind.

An inspection will decide the matter.

It is just the stove you need. Burns wood and lighter fuel.

"Cole's," the Original Patented Air-Tight Heater, is sold only by us

See the name "Cole's" is on the feed door of each stove. None genuine without it.
